

Nature is more important than ever during lockdown. Spring in is the air and it is a time of anticipation and excitement. While the snow melts on the local trails fun activities have been early season mountain biking and spring skiing. There are lots of choices for things to enjoy in our own communities and now is the best time to keep exploring them. Studies have shown spending time in nature has been beneficial to our overall physical well-being and mental health during lockdown. The Provincial Health Order restriction of not being able to gather in homes, impelled us to interact in nature much more than pre pandemic. Meeting outside was a means to stay connected with loved ones. Green spaces have played an essential and crucial roll in allowing us to gather with family and friends. Post pandemic spending time outdoors will likely become a new way of life. We should be thankful for the ability to walk out our front door to access better health and experience meaningful connections. Fresh air and being in nature will lower our stress levels and raise our energy levels and help promote a feeling of calmness and peacefulness.

We are thinking about all our guests and can't wait to see everyone when the time is right. In the meantime, please stay active outdoors and soak up the sunshine vitamin. Erase any negative feelings about being in lockdown and focus on the gratitude and positivity. We are on the road to recovery and let's continue to work together to bend the curve back. By order and direction of our Provincial Health Officer Dr. Bonnie Henry, and the Ministry of Public Safety Mike Farnworth, travel in British Columbia is restricted to essential needs only. The travel restrictions are in effect from April 23rd to May 25th, 2021. Our summer livelihood depends on us all doing our part now. We hope travel will resume this summer and to keep on the road to recovery. Complete information can be found at <https://www2.gov.bc.ca..>

April Highlights

We are excited and pleased to welcome Sous Chef Andrey to our summer family. Chef Andrey is passionate about food, cooking and the outdoors. He is looking forward to sharing his culinary skills and love of nature with our Purcell Lodge family and guests. Head Chef Josef and Chef Andrey have been collaborating on a summer menu guaranteed to stimulate the eye and excite our taste buds. Our cuisine will focus on fresh, healthy and natural ingredients that will make you feel fantastic after a day of backcountry activity.

Vaccination plans are underway for our summer PML crew. Our summer staff are in the process of booking and planning for vaccinations. All our summer team will be vaccinated prior to the start of the season. In addition, our staff will wear a face mask and will continue with our enhanced cleaning and sanitation protocols. Thank you to our guests who have let us know they have been vaccinated or are planning to do so before their visit. Let's all plan towards having a safe summer together.

A fresh lick of paint makes a home feel like new...

We are thankful for a fresh, clean look to start our summer. Thank you to Armondo, Tony and Dani with Royal Painting Ltd., Edmonton, Jason, Pheonix Painting, Edmonton, Nathaniel, Beniah and Samuel from Klassen Home Improvements, Golden. Thank you very much for helping to paint the lodge interior. Our Purcell Lodge family will forever be grateful for your friendships, hard work and care.

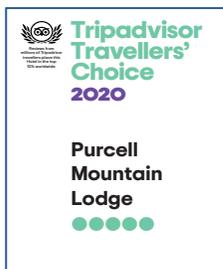

Earth Day was celebrated on April 22nd. The 2021 theme "Restore our Earth", focused on natural processes and emerging green technologies that can restore the world's ecosystems. Earth Day is a wonderful reminder for us all to be aware of the ways we are all connected to our home, planet and to each other. It was great to see many communities celebrating Earth Day picking up litter, planting trees or simply reflecting on the beauty of nature!

Keep our mountain home on your summer bucket list

Summer travel can happen if all goes well in the race to vaccinate as many Canadians as possible while preventing a surge of new cases.
